

The Desert Bighorn Sheep is Nevada's state animal. Limited to mountainous habitats, bighorn sheep can live up to 14 years. They eat grasses and shrubs, and weigh from 100 to 250 pounds. The Indigo bush grows on rocky slopes and has flowers that range from dark blue to purple. Above is the proud Prairie Falcon hunting for birds and small mammals, such as the Antelope Ground Squirrel, which is out in the open during the day, looking for seeds and fruit.